

Self Discovery

“You need to understand yourself as a leader before you can understand or lead others.”

Self leadership is having a developed sense of who you are, what you do and where you are going. Self leadership enables you to better understand yourself so that you can be a more effective and inspiring leader.

So, what lies beneath the surface? Below our surface lies the many experiences that shaped us, the values and beliefs that have emerged and the purpose we hold for deeper meaning in our work.

This thoughtful and practical webinar will help you to understand yourself and who you are at work. The beauty of this webinar is turning the evidence-based theory and research into easy to follow and useful practical steps for everyone to grow and develop their leadership.

“There are too many examples of how other people lead. There are no examples of what’s authentic to you until you get there. So, you have to search for it.”
